Expression of Interest:

Service providers and mental health workers are invited to express interest in providing a 20-30 minute presentation on their work, research or program development, focusing on supporting the mental health needs of people from Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Backgrounds.

The Forum will be held at the Launceston Tram Sheds Friday 27 August 2010.

Key Note Speaker: Greg Turner

Queensland Transcultural Mental Health Centre

Greg has worked with the Queensland Transcultural Mental Health Centre for the past eleven years. For seven of these years Greg was the Education Coordinator with the Centre and in that time coordinated the development of numerous courses on transcultural mental health, including a post-graduate subject on Introduction to Transcultural Mental Health delivered through the University of Queensland, School of Medicine. Greg is currently the State Liaison & Policy Coordinator with the Centre and manages the statewide program of multicultural mental health coordinators across Queensland as well as being responsible for policy direction to ensure that transcultural mental health is embedded into all aspects of mental health policy, service development and delivery. Greg has delivered over 500 professional development workshops, training sessions and conference papers across Australia on a range of topics relating to transcultural mental health and remains deeply passionate about the subject. Greg is a registered psychologist and a Lecturer with the University of Queensland, School of Medicine.
